

PROGRESSIVES WILL ORGANIZE COUNTIES

Bull Moose Leaders Plan to Perfect Party Machinery in Thoroughanner.

"Perfect the county organization all over the country." This is the slogan of the Bull Moose leaders, both those connected with the national management of the Progressive party and those in the House. Not only is it the slogan, but in so far as the resources of the Progressive party's national organization permit, the plan is being worked out in practice. Despite the fact that the Progressive party is a new party, some eminently skilled and practical politicians are in it, and are conspicuous in the management of it. Col. Theodore Roosevelt himself has never been accused of lacking acumen or practical skill when it comes to the actual management of political matters. The result is that the Progressive party organization is being worked out in a fashion that is likely to give both old parties trouble when the next real test of strength comes; that is, in the Congressional campaign of next year.

Organization down to the "grass roots" is the thing the Progressive party leaders have found out they need. And this is the thing on which their efforts are now centered. Activity directed to this end is being carried on in many States.

The Progressive party leaders say that in the recent campaign they were badly handicapped. They were new as a party. A new organization had to be thrown together on the shortest notice. It was impossible in most localities to get a strong organization. The result was that the party had to depend largely on the initiative of the individual voter.

But in the next campaign, the Progressive party leaders say, it will be different. They intend to organize with the country as the unit. The organization will be perfected as far as possible down into the townships, wards and precincts. When that is done, the Progressive party will make the Republican and Democratic parties sit up and take notice and will remove any chance for the allegation that the Bull Moose party is only a transient political manifestation made possible through the popularity of Colonel Roosevelt. Of course, the real fight the Progressive party organization is being prepared for is the 1916 campaign.

DIES IN AMBULANCE ON WAY TO HOSPITAL

Man Drops on Street and Empty Phial in Pocket Suggests He Took Poison.

Taken suddenly ill at Sixth and C streets northwest, and possibly suffering from the effects of some poison, an unidentified white man about fifty-five years old, died this morning a few minutes after being removed to the Emergency Hospital. An autopsy will probably be necessary to determine the cause of death.

Several pedestrians saw the man fall to the pavement, and a hurry call was sent to the hospital. Dr. Newhouse responded in the ambulance, but the man failed to rally to stimulants, and died just before reaching the hospital.

It was thought at first that death was due to natural causes, but the finding of a small empty phial in his pocket suggested to the physicians that he might have taken poison. The only other thing in his pocket was a partly filled whisky bottle.

The man was poorly dressed. He had gray hair and a gray mustache. There were no papers in his pockets or any marks on his clothing that would give the slightest clue to his identity.

ANACOSTIA CHURCH GETS NEW PASTOR

The Rev. G. L. White Succeeds the Rev. Samuel W. Grafflin in Methodist Episcopal Charge—The Rev. Mr. Earle Returns to Congress Heights.

WASHINGTON TIMES BUREAU. ANACOSTIA, D. C., APRIL 3. Announcement of the appointment of the Rev. G. L. White by the Baltimore annual conference to succeed the Rev. Samuel W. Grafflin as pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church in Anacostia, was received with satisfaction. The Rev. White has been serving at the Rogers Memorial M. E. Church, West district of Baltimore. He will take up his duties here at once. The Rev. Grafflin today departed for New York to assume his duties as social secretary of the Wade Baking Company.

The Rev. Merrill Earl, who has been reassigned to the Congress Heights M. E. Church for the third year, was greeted by his congregation for the first time since his reappointment at prayer-meeting services last night.

The Rev. Frank L. Bardens, pastor of the Baptist Church, has resigned his charge. The Rev. Bardens desires to accept a call to Derby, Pa. While the congregation has not accepted his resignation, it is presumed the wishes of the pastor will be heeded. It is understood he desires to give up his charge by May 1. He has served four years.

The church officers will consider having visiting clergymen fill the pulpit temporarily. Evangelist Belt, of Washington, will preach Sunday.

Plan to Standardize Educational System

The standardizing of professional education in the same rigid manner that a gauge for railway tracks is standardized is advocated by Dr. George Edwin MacLean, formerly president of the State University of Iowa, in a bulletin issued by the United States Bureau of Education.

He suggests that the increasingly high professional standard, which make the American graduate twenty-six or twenty-seven years of age in beginning the practice of his profession, form an important point in the demand for a complete reorganization of the educational system, he says.

THINKS EATON DIED FROM RAT POISON

Detective Says Arsenic Likely Was Administered in That Easily Bought Form.

BOSTON, April 3.—John H. Scott, of Braintree, a State detective, said today that he believed the arsenic that killed Rear Admiral Joseph G. Eaton, of Annapolis, was in the form of rat poison.

On the day of Mrs. Jennie May Eaton's arrest, charged with the murder of her husband, District Attorney Barker said that "some form of arsenic" killed the admiral. The indictment went so far as to mention "white arsenic," but stopped there.

It became apparent the moment that Scott said rat poison was probably the form in which the drug was administered that the search to locate any purchase of it would be more difficult than if arsenic in commercial form had been used. To buy arsenic as such involves considerable questioning, signing a book, and other formalities.

Rat poison may be bought without all this trouble.

Mrs. Ralph P. Keyes and Miss Dorothy Eaton, daughters of the accused widow, conferred with her counsel, Francis J. Geogan, in Rockland, today. Points for the defense were gone over, with suggestions made by Mrs. Eaton from her cell in Plymouth jail.
